maddie demlow

In my years of studying human-centered design, I work to creatively design user friendly products with simplicity.

For the past three years, I have been studying the art of designing for people, by people. Finding passion in how the human brain interacts with technology, I aim to design for those who do not have a voice. Implementing design that is driven by the user into my work is key, striving to make user-friendly interfaces and products that satisfy users. Approaching design with the user in mind is key to creating successful products.
